

The Poor Laborer.

[To the Editor of the Interior Journal.]
Protection for American workingmen?
 Too thin! Satan's wiles to ruin Mother Eve have never found their counterpart more fully than in the hypocrisy, unblushing lies and sophistry used by the protectionists to lure the poor man of the United States to the lowest depths of poverty. Head lines, banner inscriptions, the gushing oratory, all hold up to view the poor laboring man as the whole burden of thought and effort. Yet not a man of brains and thought among them believes such compound nonsense. Foster, the great light of the republican league, simply speaks what every intelligent protectionist knows when he says: "The manufacturers of the United States are most protected by our tariff laws," and quotes the Vermont Senator as using much stronger language.

But now enters the arena the boss liar and greatest political mountebank of the age—James G. Blaine, juggling over with sentiment and sympathy for the poor laboring man. Having bobbed over Europe with other parasites of American labor, he returns, received in grand ovation by all the tag ends, the virtue of his own party having long ago exorcised him. Dissimulating the most heart-broken anguish and crowding down the great melting tears from his eyes, he cries out to his audience: "Did grant your eyes may never see what mine have beheld." Methinks, Mr. Blaine, that here in the bone forest of Kentucky, toiling with my own hands and sweating from my own pores to make an honest living, I can picture from the mind's eye what you really saw, but will never utter so long as falsehood suits your unholy ends best. With your ill-gotten gains, in company with kindred spiders, who had ground their phreatic millions on the bone and sinew of the poor man, you traversed Europe. You feasted high, you saw and enjoyed the luxury and ease in which the protective parasite loves to revel. In the grandest of all grand equipages ($1,500,000 per year profits on iron rolled through the lowlands and highlands of Scotland and might have seen, homeless and homeless, sheltering under trees and cliffs, the coolers, erected by Carnegie, (mine host) Wiggins & Co., parasites of American labor, ($1,500,000 per year profits) there you saw the princely mansion, the golden service, the gaudy liveries of Carnegie, purchased by $1,500,000 profits per year in the Edgar Thompson iron works (yet he votes in England). You were regaled and feted for your efforts in behalf of the robber tariff that produced all this grandeur.

But, Mr. Blaine, there are things you did see and for the sake of truth and right you should tell the American people in this story ordeal. Yet you will not. Your whole life has been such as to excite the suspicions of the pure, and now deflected in all your schemes of ambition, you would infinitely prefer to reign in hell than serve in heaven.

You did see in free trade England more intelligence, wealth, prosperity and the highest civilization that ever existed in one nation since time began. You saw her millions of laborers well housed and ennobled; and although they receive according to Mr. Evans' carefully collected report in 1879, one-third less pay than the American laborer, yet working less time and living 50 per cent. cheaper, they are more contented than our own laborer. You heard of no strikes, trusts, combines and lockouts. Then you crossed the channel and journeyed into France, Germany and Italy, the lands of communism, anarchy and brigandage, countries after your own mind, highly protected. Of course you expected according to your teaching that the poor laborer was highly paid in those nations. But Mr. Evans, your own gospel, says the poor laborer only gets half as much wages in those countries as they do in England. Can you account for it, Mr. Blaine? You might even have extended your tour to China, the ground model of protection. How the dry old chestnuts, hard to crack, do boom up all around. Mr. Blaine! Did you find the English people exceedingly terrified lest their poor laborer should be ruined by the pauper labor in the adjacent nations? Did they not rather tell you definitely, as does Mr. Gladstone, that they fear the competition of no country as long as it is under the withering blight of protective tariff? They have reasoned on the question of free trade, they have put it into practice, and they perceive very clearly that the superior development of the Anglo-Saxon race and the superior advantages acquired by their genius and energy places them in position to fear no rival. Whilst on principle they would be glad to see free trade among the kindred race in America, yet in policy it is the only danger they dread.

Mr. Blaine, the people understand your mock sympathy for the laboring man; they have weighed you in the balance. Before this canvass is over the factory hand will have ample opportunity to perceive that whereas he may get 50 per cent. more than the English laborer, yet enhanced expenses under high tariff more than consume this, besides the labor is harder and longer, and strikes and lockouts frequent; the farmer and farm hands, merchants and professional men, seven-eighths of the people, will be so enlightened that they may perceive that nowhere is this tariff beneficial to them, but that by its oppressive exactions, yearly, hundreds of millions are wrested from them and transferred to the coffers of your boon companions, the monopolists and millionaires. These, Mr. Blaine, are the truths and facts in the case; and the people will learn that the frantic appeals and assertions of you and your cabal are entitled only to the credence of your statement that you were secretly married in Kentucky.

—Jim Alcorn's wife cut herself badly by a corn knife falling from the loft and striking her near the ear. She was almost lifeless when Dr. Traylor was called in. He succeeded in stopping the blood after which Dr. Kumard, of Lancaster, was called in and they dressed the cut in first-class order and she is now doing well.

DEATH'S DOINGS.

—Died, August 15th, at Blue Lick Springs, Mo., Wm. Duncan, in his 80th year. The deceased was well and favorably known in Boyle and Lincoln counties, where he had many warm friends.

—[Lebanon Standard.]

—Mrs. Nancy Jones, widow of Greenup Jones, near Jacksonville, Mo., died August 19th, just ten weeks after the death of her husband. She had been a sufferer for several years, and for the last few months her sufferings had been very great, until within a few days of her death, when she became apparently easy and died very quietly. She was born Dec. 15, 1823, in Lincoln county, Ky., where she still has relatives, her maiden name being Stephenson. She was married August 6, 1849. She was converted in early life and united with the Baptist church at Logan's Creek, Lincoln county, Ky. After coming to Missouri, about 5 years ago, she united with the Union Baptist church, where she continued in the Lord's service till death; and that Lord Whom she accepted in the tender age of 18 was with her the nearly 50 remaining years of her life, and sustained her in death. After appropriate services by her pastor, M. F. Williams, and the writer, attended by a large crowd of mourning friends, she was placed by the side of her husband, to await the call of God, when together they shall come forth unto the resurrection of life. May the two sons and five daughters left behind comfort themselves with these words.

W. P. WALTON.

WITH SUPPLEMENT.

On his way to Port Huron, Michigan, Hon. Allen G. Thurman was received with a perfect ovation at every station his train stopped. During the first day out he made ten speeches, all models of compact, sound and sensible utterances, which is doing pretty well for a man claimed by the subsidized organs to be in his dotage and on the verge of dissolution. His definition of the tariff was so plain that the wayfaring man though a fool could comprehend. Said he: "A tariff, my friends, is nothing in this world but a tax levied by the general government upon importations brought into the United States for sale, the effect of which is to raise the price of every commodity that is imported, and also the price of all domestic commodities of the same nature made within the United States. This tax is paid by the consumer of the article. When your State tax is levied, it is levied on property; it is paid by property. The man of much property pays much more than the man of little property, and the man of no property pays none at all. But a tariff is a tax paid by the consumer of the so-called protected articles. He pays it, not to the tax-gatherer, not to any officer of the government, but he pays it in the price which he gives for every protected article that he buys. It is a tax that takes hold of everything, from the crown of your head to the soles of your feet; that taxes your hats, your coats, your vests, your breeches, your boots, your shoes; that taxes every implement that you use in your mechanical and agricultural operations. And now to tell me that to take a laboring man and tax him from the top of his head to the soles of his feet, and to tax him on everything that he uses in his trade, and to tax him heavily, is a benefit to him, seems to me to be nothing else than absurdity. Of all the humbugs by which men are attempted to be deceived, this humbug of the laboring man being benefited by a high protective tariff is the greatest I ever heard of."

There has been quite a shaking-up in the Danville Advocate ownership. S. G. Boyle, who has bought a half interest in the Kentucky Stock Farm, has sold his interest in the Advocate to Messrs. H. E. Woolfolk and Col. C. R. Anderson, who with its founder and mainstay, Mr. J. R. Marrs, will conduct it on its established policy of publishing all the news and commenting on current events and public men and measures in the fairest manner. It is said that Mr. W. J. Lyle, who has been solicitor and traveling correspondent for the Advocate, will go with Mr. Boyle, both of whom we regret to lose from this section. The accession of that excellent young democrat and cleverest of gentlemen, Col. Anderson, to the newspaper field is the subject of gratulation, and we welcome him with pride to the ranks. The Advocate will lose nothing, to say the least, with him on its editorial staff.

Mahone has succeeded in running John S. Wise out of Virginia but a negro named Langston seems to have stepped into Wise's shoes as a disturbing element for the repudiator. He threatens to take the negro vote from him, and in his extremity Mahone has appealed to Fred Douglas to help him, who has responded by sending a proclamation to the negroes to desert Langston and stick to Mahone. We shall see which is the most powerful the old negro or the young.

A REPUBLICAN said to us, "We don't expect to beat McGroarty, but we want to make him put up the boodle." It will take a much better man than has been spoken of for the nomination yet to prevent our candidate from winning hands down, even if the republicans should have a strong ally in the prohibition candidate. No deluded vote sellers, McGroarty needs no boodle to carry the 8th district over any combine.

The democrats of the 9th District in convention assembled at Maysville nominated Thomas H. Paynter, of Greenup, for Congress, on the 23d ballot. He led in the balloting from the start with Hon. Green R. Keller, of the Carlisle Mercury, a good second. Paynter is said to be a capital man and well equipped to redeem the district, which the democrats promise shall be done.

CYNTHIANA took on a virtuous spasm Sunday and so strictly enforced the law for its observance that people had to go outside of town to buy their newspapers. There are some things that ought not to be done on Sunday and some others that should be done and it is not likely that the people will long submit to this return of the Blue law regime.

Gov. McGroarty thinks that Kentucky will send a solid democratic delegation to Congress this year and that the old time majority will be rolled up for Cleveland & Thurman. It begins to look that way, that's a fact.

In the anguish of his soul, Bruce Champ, of the Paris News, exclaims, "Every citizen seems to skirt us."

FINDING no chance to indulge in his caustic legends, with a democrat on the prohibition question, and not daring, we opine, to debate it with a republican, Bro. Ballou embraces the opportunity offered him to indulge his other propensity—caustic scribbles—with our amiable selves as the target. Since it is a rather harmless undertaking and he is pretty clever with his pen, we are always ready to give him a show at the largest audience it is possible to secure in this section, through the medium of newspaper. We repeat that the democratic platform says nothing about prohibition this time, and it is only by implication, rather remote, that the question is at all considered. All democrats regard it as a purely moral one, to be regulated by communities outside of politics. Bro. Ballou's memory may be better than ours, and we consequently do not deny that Mr. Watterson claimed the defeat of prohibition in Texas as a democratic victory, but if he did, that does not settle it by any means, since as good democrats as Mr. Watterson were arrayed on both sides of the question down there, which is pretty good evidence that it was not considered from a political point of view. Good democrats have always arrayed themselves on the side of temperance, when it is morally presented, but when it is clothed in the garb of a third party movement and is sought to further the ends of designing men, they will not desert the party which was founded almost at the beginning of our national life and is destined to continue to control the policy of our government.

The passage of the Chinese bill, the object of which is to enforce the stipulations of treaty negotiated by the president and his Secretary of State, with an important amendment by Gov. McCreary, is due almost entirely to the skillful parliamentary tactics of that gentleman. The treaty absolutely prohibits Chinese laborers from coming to this country and furnishes the relief long prayed for by the people of the Pacific Coast. The Washington dispatch after telling how Gov. McCreary engineered the bill adds: "The passage of the bill, coming upon the heels of the passage of his Land Bill, which will restore millions of acres to their rightful owners, and his bill providing for an international congress of the fifteen republics of the Western Hemisphere to promote commerce and trade, is a tall feather in the Governor's cap, and he is being congratulated on all sides."

Our brethren of the Lebanon Standard and Times extend their sympathy to the editor of this paper, which is gratefully received, and asks: "Can he not have a bit of comfort from the recollection of Gov. Hendricks' carbuncle, which was finally declared to be 'nothing but a darned bile?'"

JUDGE THURMAN spoke at Port Huron, Mich., Wednesday to many thousands of people. It was a grand effort, by the grandest man of his day, and we shall from time to time give ample extracts from it, if we do not print it entire.

One of Madison's unsophisticated youths, who went on the Old Point excursion, told French Tipton in great confidence on his return: "We had a heap of fun going in washing with the girls."

Teachers' Institute.

Prof. Shacklett did not come and Prof. G. A. Yates, who happened to drop in on a visit, was pressed into service as conductor, and as he always does has filled the difficult position with credit to himself and to the satisfaction of Supt. Bogle and teachers.

SECOND DAY.

Notwithstanding the extremely unfavorable character of the weather, there was a fair attendance of teachers and an interesting series of discussions. The first subject up was Writing, which was unanimously considered by Conductor Yates, his presentation being supplemented by Miss Morgan, Messrs. Niles, McClary and others. The allotted 90 minutes was consumed in discussions and illustrations of the subject; and the result evidently was a determination to give the matter more attention and to go beyond Hodgeberry's wise axiom that "Readin' and ritin' comes by natur'."

and add the assistance of taste, philosophy and practice in the cultivation of this useful and ornamental art. The afternoon was consumed mainly by the consideration of Arithmetic. The subject excited great interest and elicited evidence of a broad acquaintance with the topic, original conceptions of its value, ingenious simplifications of its difficulties and proving that there is poetry even in mathematics. The burden of this discussion was borne mainly by the gentlemen, though the ladies were interested auditors. Messrs. Yates, Niles, Tauner, McClary and Chappel participated most extensively. Miss Morgan gave the lights of her experience and added to the lights on the question. The hour and a half given this question was evidently profitably employed.

WEDNESDAY.

A committee was appointed, composed of Miss Edith Morgan and W. F. Niles and W. F. McClary to revise the programme. Ninety minutes were devoted to the discussion of grammar, Messrs. Yates, Hughes, Chappell, Gooch, Bogle, Niles, McClary, Messrs. Morgan, Enoch and Mrs. Denny participating. Elder J. B. Gibson being present, by request took part in the discussion.

In the afternoon Educational Psychology was ably and eloquently treated by Prof. Yates. Although a subject new to our ordinary Institute programme, yet under the mastery treatment of the lecturer it was developed into a valuable, improving and beautiful topic. The tendency of our educational work is decidedly upward. The antiquated system of birch and bigotry, mental darkness half-illuminated, and unreasoning hostility between preceptor and pupil is rapidly passing away, and we are obtaining better results by more rational means.

THURSDAY MORNING.

An hour and a half was given to the consideration of Physiology and Hygiene. A large number participated, notably Mrs. Tarrant, Mrs. Steger, Miss Morgan and Messrs. Hughes, McClary, Niles and the conductor. The subject, of course, culminated mainly in a presentation of the deformity of "the cuss of the age."

The first subject after recess was "Good manners and good morals," which was treated by Miss A. L. Stuart in an essay set up in her usual winning style.

This was succeeded by United States History and Geography. The latter called up an interesting discussion, introduced by Miss Maggie Brown in a clear and thoughtful and suggestive presentation. Prof. Yates followed on the topic of Map Drawing. In the general discussion, Messrs. Gooch, Niles, Graves, Chappell, Mrs. Tarrant. The last closed her remarks with the reading of an appropriate and beautiful selection and a touching valedictory responded to by the Institute in a rising vote of thanks to Mrs. Tarrant for the efficient aid she had given in former days and her kindly visit now.

In the afternoon Supt. J. A. Bogle discussed the school laws in a very comprehensive and instructive manner and was listened to with evident interest by the teachers.

RESOLUTIONS.

The following were unanimously adopted:

1. Resolved, That we tender our appreciation to our worthy Superintendent for his kindness to the teachers during the Institute and his untiring efforts to make it a both pleasant and profitable.

2. That we extend our thanks to Prof. Yates for his zeal and interest manifested in educational work and for the able and efficient manner in which he has conducted the exercises.

3. That we feel encouraged by the progress the teachers of Lincoln county have made during the past year and hope that their motto will be "Onward and Upward."

4. That we feel truly grateful to Mrs. Tarrant for her visit to our Institute and for her touching and earnest words of sympathy and encouragement for the teachers of Lincoln county and also to Elder John Bell Gibson for assistance rendered.

5. That the thanks of this Institute are due and hereby cordially tendered to W. P. Walton of the INTERIOR JOURNAL for his uniform courtesy and kindness manifested toward the great school work and especially for his attentions during the present session.

Mrs. M. F. DENNY, Miss M. E. CHOW, W. F. NILES, Comtee.

Prof. Yates offered a fine gold ring as a prize to the teacher that could spell the largest number of 20 words selected by him. They were about as difficult as any in the dictionary, but Miss Kate Bogle, who is a chip of the old block, spelled every one of them and won the prize. Miss Kate is an unusually bright girl and is said to be the best secretary of any that ever filled a similar position here.

The teachers tell us that this has been the most pleasant and profitable Institute they have ever attended. A large number is present and will compare in good looks with any crowd that has assembled here. There are several ladies that are unusually handsome.

The law allows the Superintendent to tax the teachers from $1 to $2 for Institute purposes. Supt. Bogle split the difference and charged them $1.50.

Owing to our inability to attend, this report is not as full as we would wish. Supt. Bogle and secretary, Miss Kate Bogle, have our thanks for a look at their notes.

A large number of the teachers honored our invitation to come in and seen print this edition last evening and gave us much pleasure and themselves some profit thereby.

Democratic Platform.

(To the Editor Interior Journal.)

I am profoundly grateful to you for your friendly and liberal expression that "The Interior Journal, like its editor, is always at your service, sir." I must, therefore, ask for valuable space to reply to your strictures upon the questions I put to Mr. Warren, which he (doubtless from prudential motives), did not condescend to answer.

1. And first, I wish to assure you and all timid and lamb-like citizens of my peaceful and harmless intentions. John Sullivan and myself have been able so far to establish my kinship between us. I have never sent a challenge; never accepted but four, and then failed to entirely kill my antagonists. When a boy I never had a fight when I had good running ground, and never got whipped, if I could help it.

2. You seem to think I intended to leave the impression that the democratic candidates were nominated on a platform condemning prohibitory laws. I must say you interpret me correctly, sir. You say, "No reference to prohibitory laws is made in our platform." Now here is an issue. Somebody is simply mistaken. Let us have the facts and evidence in the premises.

In the platform adopted by the national democratic convention at St. Louis in June, 1888, we find this language:

"The democratic party of the United States in national convention assembled, renews the pledge of its fidelity to democratic faith, and reaffirms the platform adopted by its representatives in the convention of 1884."

In their platform of 1884 the democrats said: "We oppose sumptuary laws which vex the citizens and interfere with individual liberty." That this anti-sumptuary clause in the platform of 1884, and reaffirmed in the platform of 1888, was primarily and pointedly aimed at prohibition law, is universally conceded, as far as I have heard an expression, and never denied.

3. The Interior Journal further says, "Neither is the defeat of prohibition, except when it is paraded as a party question, regarded as a democratic victory." I said (interrogatively) that the democratic party in Kentucky regarded the defeat of prohibition, even elsewhere, as a democratic victory. Proof: In the State of Texas, at a special election on constitutional prohibition, when no State officers were to be elected, in 1887, prohibition was defeated. It was well known that the defeat was attributable, to a great extent, to the almost solid negro vote against prohibition. Those colored voters were about all republicans. In a few days after said election we have the following declaration in the Courier-Journal from Henry Watterson: "No matter who is responsible for the overwhelming majority, nor who composed the vote against prohibition, its defeat is distinctly a democratic victory." This Texas election had been ordered by a democratic legislature and governor, and prohibition was supported by about one-half the democrats in the State, including some of the honored leaders, as Ex-Senator Maxey and Senator Reagan. Yet the leading democrat in Kentucky, in our Courier-Journal, tells us it is distinctly a democratic victory. The man who would not believe such authority would not be persuaded, though one rose from the dead!

4. The Interior Journal says: "As for ourselves, we have always advocated the most stringent regulation (relegation) is better of the liquor traffic, and whether it is accomplished by high license or entire prohibition, we care very little." That is pretty good. So we may, with confidence, count on Mr. Walton as a pretty fair half-prohibitionist. He has only two methods of dealing with the liquor traffic—high license and prohibition—and he cares very little which is applied. Here I feel like, at least, giving you the left hand (that is nearest the heart) of fellowship.

Prohibitionists have much to hope and nothing to fear from the Interior Journal. As to the tariff questions I can not say anything here. Possibly I may touch upon that many-sided subject at the Court House the 1st Monday in Sept. Most respectfully,

August 21, 1888.

JOHN B. BELLON.

We note in the Interior Journal a few shots from the skirmish lines that would seem to indicate a disposition on the part of the prohibitionist for more active hostilities with the democracy. We observe that Bro. Bellon is quite bellicose, but we don't see how he will be able to get up a "fight" with Dick Warren after the latter has put forth his peace offering. And our fiery brother of the Interior Journal is unwilling for such a conflict, for the very good reason that there is no ground for it. Our prohibition friends in Kentucky ought to understand that the democratic party in this State is not hostile to well-considered prohibition laws in all communities that desire to have them. Lincoln county is a notable example of this sentiment; so is Owen and other strong democratic counties that have gone "dry." The rigid enforcement of the law is urged by consistent democratic papers like the Interior Journal, Owen Democrat, and others where it prevails, and for the life of us we fail to see why our good prohibition friends should desire to undermine their guns against Kentucky Democrats. —[Danville A. Leconte.

Simply because most of the so-called leaders here were republicans and are still so at heart.

STRANGE TO RELATE.

An alligator killed the other day at Dade City, Fla., weighed six hundred pounds and was fourteen feet long. Upon being opened the alligator was found to contain another alligator six feet in length.

STRANGE and interesting petrefactions were at a late date being taken from stone quarries near Alton, Ill. Geologists have determined some of them to be of huge batrachians of a very remote date.

A pet dog at Chico, Cal., was lately given a forty-mile ride down a flume in the mountains. A raft was made upon which the dog was placed and in three hours' time was taken safe and sound from it at its destination.

A curious disease of the eye has developed among cigarette smokers, which yields only to long and careful treatment. It is called "cigarette eye," and its symptoms are dimness and imperfect sight, over which glasses have no control.

White huckleberries were recently gathered from East Knob, a mountain in Pike County, Pa. They were the size of wild cherries and were of a creamy whiteness. Sussex County, N. J., is also said to produce a small quantity of this strange fruit.

A singular case is reported from Binghamton, N. Y., in which a man has awakened from a two years' sleep. Upon awakening from his cataleptic condition he remembered nothing that had transpired in the two years. Though very weak his chances for recovery were good.

AS old negro living in Jonesboro, S. C., said to be one hundred and eight years old, has been married nine times and is the father of one hundred and seventeen children. He has been preaching eighty-six years, is still in possession of all his faculties and is almost as active as a boy.

Mary huge turtles frequent the coasts of lower California, it being a not uncommon sight to see those of three or four hundred pounds weight. A traveler from the East lately saw a man rush into the water and mount one of these monsters for a ride, which he obtained without any trouble.

A young couple were married by a minister in Middletown, Ky., who after the ceremony was asked by the groom if he would take his pay in something besides money. He said he would, and in a few days thereafter was made the recipient of a stack of hay, a load of wheat straw and a jug of molasses.

A St. Louis young lady with a wealth of red hair conceived a novel idea to show that she stands to her colors. She gave a party to which none but red-headed people were invited, and these were to be drawn to the party by none but white horses. The servants were red-headed, and the table-linen was of a corresponding color.

Some time ago the bookkeeper of an Escondido (Mich.) iron company started out with fifteen thousand dollars in gold to pay off employees. While en route his horse ran away upsetting him and his cash and scattering the coin along the streets as he ran. After a long search thirteen thousand dollars were recovered. The balance being irretrievably lost.

CHINAMEN in this country are strongly opposed to having the bodies of their dead friends taken to the morgue. There is a peculiar belief among them that the corner pours a magic lotion over the bodies taken to the morgue, which causes the fatty matter of the corpse to run off in oil, which is bottled and sold to American doctors who use it as a medicine.

SAN FRANCISCO has a citizen said to be constructed upon the dual principle of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde. For whole weeks, it is said, his complexion is of a light yellow, resembling that of an ordinary Spaniard. Then suddenly his skin will turn to an Ethiopian black, so that his friends can not recognize him except by his clothes. It has been noticed that when wearing the light complexion he is jovial and fond of society, but when black he pulls his hat down over his eyes, becomes morose and seeks to avoid recognition by his friends.

CHURCH CONCERNS.

Last year 28 American Baptist ministers died. Their average age was sixty-five years.

The total expense of the M. E. General Conference of 1888, according to official statement of Treasurer J. M. Phillips, was over $65,000.

It took the Supreme Court of the State to decide that the trustees should not introduce an organ in the Christian church of Wendell, Conn.

The Reformed Presbyterian church synod, at its recent session, directed the not sessions to promote, according to church discipline, members who advertise in Sunday newspapers.

Methodists the Dutch Reformed churches will receive "offerings," not "contributions" or "collections." The General Synod recommends the use of the word "offerings" as indicating a higher conception of giving to the Almighty.

The Reformed Presbyterian church, through its highest body, by a vote of 33 to 24, has decided: "That in our judgment the ordination of a woman as a deacon is in harmony with the New Testament and the constitution of the Apostolic church."

Methodism in New England has steadily increased during the last five years. Since 1883 the number of churches has increased from eighteen to thirty-one and the membership from 2,855 to 4,588. A church has recently been established in Newport, R. I.

The Congregational Sunday-school workers of Boston propose raising a $100,000 memorial fund in honor of Rev. Asa Hallard, the pioneer Sunday-school worker, who lately died. The money will be a permanent fund for the carrying on of Sunday-school missionary work in this country.

The rather strange fact is brought out by recent statistics that the Episcopalians in New York City that is increasing proportionately as fast as the population of the city. The New York Star says that the Episcopal churches are the only Protestant ones that are filled.

During the forty-eight years of the existence of the foreign board of the Presbyterian church 453 missionaries have been engaged in the missions east and west of the Mississippi river. The foreign board has expended $250,000, the free gift of the churches, besides the $250,000 entrusted to it by the government for educational work.

It has been discovered that the average length of time that the $25,000 a year clergyman is able to work without becoming a physical wreck and having to be sent abroad is seven months. The 10,000 man can stand it about months; he receives 7,000 nine months; the 5,000 preacher ten months; and so on; but the man on a $250 salary works right along all the year round, and doesn't break down.

A Christian church composed entirely of whisky dealers would be a novelty indeed, yet that is the result that threatens to come from a church row in Louisville, Ky. Two of the wealthiest members of the First Christian Church there are whisky dealers, and the church says they must give up their business or suffer disavowal from the society. The whisky men of the city are very much enraged and declare that if the church carries out its threat they will organize a church of their own.

Long-Standing

Blood Diseases are cured by the persevering use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

This medicine is an Alternative, and causes a radical change in the system. The process, in some cases, may not be quite so rapid as in others; but, with persistence, the result is certain. Read these testimonials:

"For two years I suffered from a severe pain in my right side, and had other troubles caused by a torpid liver and dyspepsia. After trying several medicines a fair trial without a cure, I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I was greatly benefited by the first bottle, and after taking five bottles I was completely cured."—John W. Benson, 79 Lawrence St., Lowell, Mass.

Last May a large carbuncle broke out on my arm. The usual remedies had no effect, and I was confined to my bed for eight weeks. A friend induced me to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Less than three bottles healed the sore. In all my experience with medicine, I never saw more Wonderful Results.

Another marked effect of the use of this medicine was the strengthening of my sight."—Mrs. Carrie Adams, Holly Springs, Texas.

"I had a dry, scaly humor for years, and suffered terribly; and, as my brother and sister's health failed, I presumed the malady was hereditary. Last winter, Dr. T. T. (of Fernandina, Fla.) recommended me to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and continue it for a year. For five months I took it daily. I have not had a blemish upon my body for the last three months."—T. E. Wiley, 146 Chambers St., New York City.

"Last fall and winter I was troubled with a dull, heavy pain in my side. I did not notice it much at first, but it gradually grew worse until it became almost unbearable. During the latter part of this time, disorders of the stomach and liver increased my troubles. I began taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and after faithfully continuing the use of this medicine for some months, the pain disappeared and I was completely cured."—Mrs. Augusta A. Best of All

Cough medicines, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is in greater demand than ever. No preparation for Throat and Lung Troubles is so prompt in its effects, so agreeable to the taste, and so widely known as this. It is the family medicine in thousands of households.

"I have suffered for years from a bronchial trouble that, whenever I take cold or am exposed to inclement weather, shows itself by a very annoying tickling sensation in the throat and by difficulty in breathing. I have tried a great many remedies, but none does as well as Ayer's Cherry Pectoral which always gives prompt relief in return of my old complaint."—Ernest A. Heyler, Inspector of Public Roads, Parish Terrebonne, La.

"I consider Ayer's Cherry Pectoral a most important remedy."

For Home Use.

I have tested its curative power, in my family, many times during the past thirty years, and have never known it to fail. It will relieve the most serious affections of the throat and lungs, whether in children or adults."—Mrs. E. G. Edgerly, Council Bluffs, Iowa.

"Twenty years ago I was troubled with a disease of the lungs. Doctors afforded me no relief and considered my case hopeless. I then began to use Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and before I had finished one bottle, found relief. I continued to take this medicine until a cure was effected. I believe that Ayer's Cherry Pectoral saved my life."—Samuel Griggs, Winkegan, Ill.

"Six years ago I contracted a severe cold which settled on my lungs and soon developed all the alarming symptoms of Consumption. I had a cough, night sweats, bleeding from the lungs, pains in chest and sides, and was so prostrated as to be confined to my bed most of the time. After trying various prescriptions, without benefit, my physician finally determined to give me Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. I took it, and the effect was magical. I seemed to rally from the first dose of this medicine, and, after using only three bottles, am as well and sound as ever."—Rodney Johnson, Springfield, Ill.
